6.5.3 Off campus water conservation support

A lake restoration activity was conducted by the NSS, DSU to rejuvenate the local water body and promote environmental sustainability. The initiative involved cleaning and de-silting the lake, removing weeds and plastic waste, improving water quality through eco-friendly methods, and planting native trees along the banks to prevent soil erosion. Students, faculty, and community volunteers actively participated in the drive, creating awareness about the importance of conserving natural water resources. The effort resulted in improved water clarity, enhanced biodiversity, and a cleaner, greener ecosystem that supports long-term ecological balance.
